- Good project and investment activity for both modernizations and greenfields
- Satisfactory investment activity for biomass/recovery boilers
- Unchanged challenging competitive environment, especially for large-scale projects

Business development  Q1 2014 vs. Q1 2013

Market development Q1 2014

- Good project activity for metal forming equipment
- Steel: unchanged low project activity $\rightarrow$ only some selective investments
- Furnaces: low investment activity

Business development  Q1 2014 vs. Q1 2013

- Order intake favorably up due to Schuler and large steel order in China
- Sales increase only driven by Schuler (ex Schuler, decline by 20\%)
- Margin down due to low sales generation

Expectations for the business area
HYDRO: solid project activity for modernizations and new hydropower stations to continue; some large-scale order awards expected

PULP & PAPER: solid project activity for modernizations/capacity increases and power/biomass boilers; good pipeline for greenfield pulp mill projects; unchanged competitive pricing environment

METALS: global metal forming market to stay at good level; project activity for stainless steel to remain at subdued level

SEPARATION: low project activity in mining to remain; increasing project activity in chemicals; good investment activity in environment, food processing, and feed/biomass

- Slight increase in sales due to Schuler consolidation effect (contribution of additional two months in 2014)
- Significant improvement of net income targeted
